We at Catholic Charities wanted to let you know that we are aware of and continue to monitor potential outbreaks and risks associated with the 2019-nCoV (Coronavirus). We recognize that most of our clients belong to a very vulnerable population. At this time, we will continue to keep all facilities open; however, we are creating and updating all program policies to be prepared for potential outbreaks and offer best practice service in our communities.

We have advised and are continuing to train our staff on techniques to ensure their best health and those we serve. We rely heavily on community volunteers and are putting in place practices that will protect both our volunteers and clients. We continue to review up-to-date reports regarding Coronavirus through the World Health Organization (WHO), Housing and Urban Development, and local counties and health organizations to adjust and educate as necessary.

We strongly recommend that you take precautions to protect your health and practice guidelines set out by the WHO in regards to hand-washing and personal hygiene.
